Poles Defeated When Germans Raid Silesia

Two Columns of Lightly Armed Germans Attack Polish Stronghold.

FRENCH DEMAND ACTION

Two Battalions of British Troops to Be Sent to Fighting Area.

By United Press Leased Wire
London.—Polish and German war in Upper Silesia flamed up with renewed strength Monday.

In regular military formation, two columns of Germans, lightly armed for the most part, were marching against the Poles. The insurgents were reported giving way before the Germans. Great Britain is sending four battalions of her troops into the region in the hope of restoring order.

The French foreign office declared it had advised that German volunteers by the thousands are pouring in to Upper Silesia, intent on fighting the Poles. The volunteers were said to have been offered free transportation.

Coupled with the French reports was the semi-official statement that France will hold Germany responsible for what occurs in Upper Silesia. The statement was in line with previous utterances of the French. Premier Briand's first statement in regard to the situation was that "France cannot remain neutral" if Silesia is invaded.

Heavy fighting occurred Monday at Katowitz with the Poles being repulsed. Polish troops were routed at Albrechtstorf and Losoweschau. A Polish attack at Gogolin was repulsed. Guerilla warfare was in progress at Rosenberg, Kreuzberg and Kappitz.

Germany Responsible

Paris.—France will hold Germany responsible for the fighting in Upper Silesia, it was stated semi-officially here Monday.

If the allies do not act to halt hostilities between the Poles and Germans the situation will be serious, it was stated.

Disregarding French protests German volunteers by the thousands are pouring into Upper Silesia, the foreign office declared Monday. In some places free railway transportation is being offered to attract prospective fighters, it was said.

Heavy fighting was reported in progress around Katowitz where three thousand German volunteers are attacking Polish insurgents. The Poles had made a head quarters at Katowitz and had endeavored to kill city troops. They were well armed.

Premier Briand Monday wired French representatives in Upper Silesia asking for confirmation of reports that German volunteers had attacked Polish insurgents there.

It was reported that if the attacks were confirmed Briand would lay the facts before his cabinet with a request that energetic action be taken against Germany to carry out his recent declaration that France will not remain an inactive spectator if the Germans invade Silesia.

Britain Sends Troops

London.—Four battalions of British soldiers will leave immediately for Upper Silesia, it was announced officially by the war office Monday.

The men will be drawn from the troops along the German border. The battalions will augment the allied forces sent to preserve order until the plebiscite has been determined.

Unofficial reports here Monday said that fighting between Poles and Germans is continuing in Upper Silesia.

In the neighborhood of Kreuzberg, Rosenberg and Kappitz the fighting was said to be of guerilla character. Well armed Polish forces were dispersed by two columns of Germans, armed with revolvers, who marched boldly in Grossteneier forest where large Polish forces awaited them in roughly made barricades.

Poles, after a sharp conflict at Lovietzow were overwhelmed by the Germans. They set fire to numerous buildings terrorized the German inhabitants and withdrew. The most extensive damage there was the burning of Grossteneier castle, a notable landmark.

Losses on both sides were said to be mounting.

LITTLE DANGER OF JAPS SEIZING BROWN BROTHERS

Labor Conditions and Climate Militate Against Japanese Aggression.

By CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL
Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.
Manila.—Coming down on the steamer from Shanghai, an American said to me:

"If the United States were to withdraw from the Philippines at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning the Japanese would have them by 6 o'clock tomorrow night."

He was playing the opening bars of the Japanese nocturne in G minor with which I have been favored ever since. According to these sad souls the islands live but in the shadow of a horrible demon with mouth open to devour them; the fair Andromeda chained to the rocks and the U. S. playing the protecting Perseus and everything.

This may be all true. I don't know and don't see how anybody else can. In view of the events of the last seven years, anything may be possible. But there is at least one corner of these islands where it seems likely the Japanese scare will never keep anybody awake at night worrying about it.

Down on the coast of Davao, island of Mindanao, they have been learning all about the fierce, man-eating Jap and are not afraid of him.

Davao is a great country for hemp. For miles around the landscape looks like one vast hemp farm.

While the war was on the demand for hemp was abnormal and the price thereof (to the grower) a rare and romantic dream. No one would have believed hemp could ever be so precious. A hemp plantation for a few swift sweet days was better than a gold mine. Naturally, there was a rush to plant hemp, and with the rest to fortunate Davao, center of this golden flood, went many Japanese.

This was the origin and the only origin of the stories of Japanese colonization and the Japanese invasion of the Philippines with which the public in America was regaled and Congress shaken. For was not here the beginning of that grabbing of process which according to the seers and the wizard like him on the steamer) the Japanese had long plotted against the islands? "The Japanese are rushing to the Philippines," cried one excited senator and all the country gasped pained head.

Well, they are not rushing to the Philippines now; for some time they have been rushing away.

I think this is a pretty fair little chapter in the history of the profes-

GERMANS BEGIN TRIAL OF THEIR WAR CRIMINALS

Men Accused of Mistreating Prisoners Appear in Court in Leipzig.

By United Press Leased Wire
Leipzig, Germany.—The "little list" of alleged German war criminals was scheduled to go to trial here Monday. British legal authorities, headed by Sir Ernest Pollock, solicitor general, were here to press the charges.

The defendants here are accused of cruelties in prison camps. Before court convened at 10:30 British and German attorneys conversed amicably over the procedure to be used. The British said they were convinced Germany intended to make an honest effort to reach just decisions in the cases. The accused men have been treated as other prisoners would be, held in jail when they could not provide proper bail.

Representatives of the German state attorney's office, told the United Press that his staff was sincere in prosecuting the charges. The hearings were regarded as preliminary to the trial of the big generals, admirals and politicians who have been charged with violating the laws of war.

Beat Prisoners

The first case today was that of Sergeant Heinen charged with beating British and Belgium war prisoners with the butt of his rifle. The prisoners had been sent to the Friedrich de Grosse mine near Herne. They declared they were not miners and would not go down into the pits.

Some of them alleged they have beaten some of them and ordered his helpers to use force on others. The next case scheduled was to bring Captain Mueller of the Landwehr before the bar. He was charged with negligence in commanding a prison camp near Flayls Martell where many deaths resulted from an epidemic laid to faulty sanitation. Mueller's defense is that he was in command of the camp only one month and that the epidemic came after he had been relieved.

Private Neuman, charged with under feeding prisoners of war, who were put to work in a chemical factory at Pommersdorf, is expected to admit his guilt. His contention is that food ran low and that Germans suffered as greatly as the British.

Another case which was expected to be taken up was the charge that Captain-Lieut. Heumann, U-boat commander, torpedoed the British ship Dover Castle. Heumann admits sinking the boat but defends his action with the plea that he was acting under instructions from the admiralty.

Business in the district was practically paralyzed for several hours as the streets were practically choked with fire apparatus and hose lines. A dense cloud of smoke enveloped the entire area.

More Efficiency Is Need In Washington

CABLE COMPANY LOSES FIGHT TO LAND IN AMERICA

Congress Gives President Absolu- te Right to Refuse Land- ing Permits.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1921, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—The dramatic fight between the Western Union Telegraph company and the United States government over the right to lay a cable at Miami, Florida, which would connect up with a British owned company in controlling American communication to South America has come to an end with a victory for the government.

Not by decision of a court, not by naval action as seemed at one time necessary, but through the influence of Secretary of State Hughes, both houses of congress have now passed a bill absolutely removing all doubt as to the right of the chief executive to refuse or grant permits to land cables in the United States. The measure will be signed by President Harding and will become law in a few days.

The reason for the Western Union's hope that a favorable decision of the courts might be handed down before congress could act was a supposition that the United States navy would be unable to prevent the landing of the cable at Miami if the courts upheld the Western Union and then if the cable was once laid it would be difficult for the government to displace the Western Union cable—it would be an accomplished fact and the courts have in effect held that the actual landing of the cable is in itself a step that cannot be upset by executive decree.

That's why the navy has kept watch on the Western Union cable boat in Florida waters and has resisted every attempt to connect American territory with the British cable running from Brazil. Several attempts to "test the cables" have been "misunderstood by the navy," according to the Western Union and clashes have occurred in the vicinity of Miami. All this tension has been occasioned by the knowledge of the government on the one hand that the rights of the executive to issue cable permits had never been sharply defined and the feelings of the Western Union that if they once landed a cable, no law could upset the arrangement without a big damage suit for it would in effect be confiscation of property.

The Wilson administration fought the Western Union at every step in its effort to land a cable. And now the Harding administration has adopted exactly the stand of the preceding administration and has gone a step further. It has secured the enactment of a law that will hereafter give the president of the United States the right to say whether any foreign concern can land a cable on American territory. This is of vast importance as a reciprocal right. For it is a known fact that some European countries have not been giving American concerns the same privileges which European companies have enjoyed in this country and there has been no way to compel equality of treatment until the American government obtained jurisdiction over the whole thing. It is not an attempt to bring about government ownership or control of cable communication but an effort to prevent foreign concerns from taking undue advantage of American companies.

NORTHERN WISCONSIN CROPS HIT BY FROST

Madison.—Frosts in northern Wisconsin during the first of last week caused considerable damage to crops, according to the report of the crop reporting service, issued here Monday. The sudden change in the weather has had a wholesale effect on all grains, the report said.

RENEW FIGHT FOR MOONEY'S RELEASE

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco.—Thomas Mooney arrived in San Francisco Monday to renew his fight for a new trial.

Mooney was brought here from San Quentin penitentiary where he is serving a life term as a result of his conviction of complicity in the San Francisco preparedness parade dynamiting of 1916.

At the ferry from San Quentin he was greeted by his wife, Rena Mooney, and by John Mooney, his brother, who had just arrived from the east to aid in the fight for Mooney's freedom.

Proceedings in Mooney's case were to open at 10 a. m. when Byron C. Parker, his attorney, will present to the court a half dozen persons, whom he asserts can give new testimony to prove Mooney's innocence.

HUGHES REACHES DECISION ON U. S. ATTITUDE OF RECOGNITION OF MEXICO.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—George T. Summerlin, of the American embassy at Mexico City, has returned to the Mexican capital to outline to the Oregon governor the United States attitude on recognition.

A definite decision has been reached by Secretary of State Hughes on the course to be taken by this government in the Mexican question. It was also announced. Officials Monday refused to reveal the nature of this decision.

Summerlin, who will be in charge of the American embassy in Mexico City, is expected to go immediately into conference with President Obregon upon his arrival in the Mexican capital.

It is believed that Summerlin carries with him a communication from Hughes stating whether the American government will recognize Obregon or whether conditions will be demanded before the extension of recognition.

The chief obstacle so far to recognition of Mexico has been the question of the possibility that Article 27 of the old Carranza constitution could be given a retroactive interpretation which would allow the confiscation of valuable American oil lands in Mexico acquired before the constitution went into effect. This article provides that all subsoil rights in Mexico belong to the nation.

TARIFF BILL NOW GOES TO HARDING

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Congress finally approved the emergency tariff bill Monday.

Today was the second time the bill has passed congress, former President Wilson having vetoed it last session.

REACHING AGREEMENT IN STILLMAN'S CASE

New York.—At a conference Monday at the offices of Mr. Stillman's attorneys at which John Mack, guardian of Guy, was Monday present as well as all members of her staff of attorneys, it was believed the final details of the settlement offered by James A. Stillman would be agreed upon.

John Mack since the question of a settlement was first presented by Stillman's lawyers, has stood out against any compromise. It was not of the present terms. He was said to be of the opinion that nothing short of a decision from Justice Morehead establishing for all time Guy's legitimacy, would satisfy him.

FIRE THREATENS LUMBER RESERVES

By United Press Leased Wire
St. Paul, Minn.—The big forest fire in the Wales district that destroyed two lumber camps is threatening $1,000,000 worth of lumber, according to reports to the state forester here Monday. A big crew of men has succeeded in hemming the fire in until it now covers an area of less than 10 square miles. By backfiring it is hoped to prevent spread of the flames.

Rain Sunday night helped some. Other fires at Murphy Lake, east of Wales, and Thomas Lake, west of Wales, are burning fiercely. It was said to have done no serious damage. About 350 men are fighting fires in various places north of Duluth. Thus far property loss has been comparatively small, according to State Forester Cox.

HARDING DECLARES NATION MUST FORGET ITS SYMPATHY FOR OFFICE HOLDERS.

NEED BUSINESS METHODS President Chances Political Op- position to Cut Govern- ment Expenses.

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—"The war slacker is not less intolerable than the traitor of peace who fails to do his duty at the polls," President Harding declared Monday at a luncheon given by the Academy of Political Science here.

He asked all citizens to take an active part in politics.

"It is politics is unclear," he said, "it is your business to make it clear. Those who have been saying things about my style, complaining that they could not understand me, ought to be able to understand that."

It was the president's second address of the day, the first delivered shortly after his arrival here, being an eulogy for American soldiers whose bodies have just been returned from France.

New York.—Ruthless efficiency at Washington, even at the risk of offending a certain class of politicians, was the ideal President Harding set for himself in an address before the Academy of Political Science here Monday.

The government must be conducted under strictly business methods, the president said, adding that he well knew that in so doing he will "lose a good deal of immediate loyalty on the part of a certain class of politicians."

He scored the confusion and red tape at Washington, declaring that the humblest household saminary conducted would meet with financial disaster.

"Stony hearted devotion" and "resolute courage" are needed to carry out this program, he asserted, but insisted that his administration will combat "existing inertia" at every point.

Sympathy for the professional job holder must be sacrificed, he said.

Emphatic Speech
The speech, by far the most direct and emphatic he has made since becoming president, was the result of two and one-half months experience, as chief executive. Although prepared for scholarly ears and couched in dignified language, the feeling behind the discourse was apparent.

"Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that eternal vigilance is the price of economy and efficiency," he said.

"Nothing is easier in a government establishment than to continue in existence offices, positions, employments once they are created. It requires persistent, determined stony hearted devotion to the public interest to do otherwise. There must be utter sacrifice of all sympathy for the place holder whose real reason for keeping his position is that he wants the salary. There must be constant examination to determine how, in the process of evolving functions and methods, forces may be reduced and duplications of work eliminated."

"Inertia which is easily the greatest force in government organizations, must be combated at every point."

"The fact that a thing has existed for a decade or a century—that things have been done in a certain way for a generation—must not be accepted as proving that it ought to continue that way. The men who conscientiously and intelligently do this work must not expect to popularize themselves with the officeholders and liberal spenders. Even the administration which devotes itself relentlessly to such work must understand that it will lose a good deal of immediate loyalty on the part of a certain class of politicians which will be given no consideration to it at once in the appreciation of the public; for the public will not have the deep, immediate interest, or the active concern, which will animate the person who finds himself pried loose from the purse strings."

Committee at Work
The president told of the special committee on reorganization of executive departments which is at work under his personal representative mapping out a program of efficiency and added that he had meantime issued executive orders directing immediate changes so far as are in his jurisdiction.

He told of the impending enactment of budget legislation, while he predicted as being helpful, while he said that the findings of the committee on efficiency appointed by the Harding administration would be utilized in shaping the proposed reorganization.

Prefacing his discussion with a brief survey of the financial and economic situation, President Harding said the existing depression is the natural result of destruction of capital during the war. He decried the power exercised over business during the war would aid the situation now, declaring that the "disturbing seeming of prosperity" during the war days was because "society was

sional Gloomie Gus and vent to invite attention to it.

Japanese colonization in Davao was as well organized as anything of the kind ever has been or can be. It was heavily backed by Japanese capital and directed doubtless with that skill and wisdom which we have come to ascribe to the Japanese superman of our darker musings. The principal concern was the Ota Development Company. It came to Talamo of the Davao region, in 1915, and bought and stocked the largest plantation there. This contained a little less than 5,000 acres on which by 1918, (the height of the hemp-fantasia)
there were growing 950 trunks of hemp and 4,000 coconut trees. At that time a list of the holdings in that neighborhood of 300 acres or more showed 70 such enterprises in which the Japanese had interest in 19. Of these the holdings of the Ota company were the largest, but there were others, not Japanese, of nearly the same size and the rest of the Japanese ventures were not formidable nor numerous.

First and last, about 8,000 Japanese came to Mindanao on this quest. Today there are but 2,000 of them left and these remain there because they can't get away, casting longing eyes
to the northland and happier climes.
In all the Philippines are fewer than 6,000 Japanese and so far as the merely human mind can prognosticate, not likely to be many more.

The reason for the blow up at Talomo is even more interesting than the fact. It wasn't because the bottom fell out of the hemp market, although that is the agonizing truth, sorrow laden for all concerned; tell
out with a crash which resounded through every bank in the Orient.
Low prices for products worry not your Japanese producer; it is when everybody else is sick of the market figures that he takes a fresh grip, works seventeen hours a day instead of his regular sixteen, and elbows his way through to profits. What did for the Japanese colonists in Mindanao was, first, they couldn't handle the labor situation and second, they didn't like the climate.

Labor in the Philippines is a delicate and difficult problem. Labor is hard to get and often harder to keep.
Down in the Davao region labor seems particularly hard to get and to keep—unless you know the natives
and have some sympathy with them.

I know American planters down
there who never have the least trouble with or about their workers, get all they need and keep all they get. But these are always men of understanding and vision. It was the first time the Japanese had bumped up against the little brown brother who off and on tills the soil in these parts. If you are going to till the soil to any large extent or do anything else important, an understanding of the labor problem is the first thing you need,
also the last and all the time between. The fact that the Japanese showed themselves unable to grasp any part of it (as was easily seen in putting the technical kayo on the Japanese peril).

No doubt the Japanese are highly successful in handling the labor problem in their own country. There the proprietor says to labor, Do this and he does it. But down here when you say to him, Do this, he smiles sweetly and goes to a cook fight if he is old or a rattling good baseball game if he is younger.

Down in Talamo labor did both conscientiously but it didn't work for the Japanese proprietors. It didn't like their looks or their ways or their speech or something. The proprietors had with them a certain number of workers of their own country, but not enough, they couldn't get enough more or keep enough near to make the old thing work, and now they are gone or on their way out.

The other reason why they didn't stay is hardly less significant. They are essentially a people for the temperate zones; they have never boomed in the tropics. Whereas the Chinese, for instance, have spread all about the South Seas, so you find them thicker than blackberries, a Japanese in those regions is rarer than robins
up around Vladivostok, and the chill Kuri islands he swarms, perfectly at home; but no one has yet been able to point a Japanese colony anywhere near the equator. For twenty-eight years Japan has assiduously pushed along and developed Formosa. Opportunities would there be as good as in the Philippines; every kind of profitable enterprise is fostered and encouraged; to the Japanese in their overcrowded land it ought to be most attractive. Yet after twenty-eight years there are fewer than 300, 000 Japanese in the whole country.
The Japanese folks just don't fancy
it, it isn't in their line.

Formosa has a climate much like that of the Philippines.
But years before the rising of the roaring Bolshevik they began to flock toward Siberia and Manchuria, where these eyes have seen them.

It is no wonder that intelligent Filipinos, remembering these facts, are not much impressed with the idea that the Japanese will gobble them over night. What with Korea and Siberia and all Japan would seem to have about as much trouble on her hands as any nation can do with nicely without going out of her way to insure the kind the Filipinos would give them, which would be no joke.
And, anyway, there is nothing else
down here for her.

UNITED STATES? NOT FOR HER!

A country of "the lower classes" is no place for her. So Mrs. W. H. Vanderbaugh, British wife of a Minneapolis attorney, refuses to live in the United States. rainbow maidens.

Eighty-five children took part, the little girls wearing costumes of colored paper dresses and the boys, cloth costumes. The singing, drills and dancing were well rendered throughout. The presentation was very picturesque as given in the sunshine.

All rooms were visited after the program, where drawing and other work were on display. The rooms were artistically decorated and parents as well as children observed the exhibits.

FAMOUS PLAYERS THRILL AUDIENCE

Lawrence Soloist Shares in Ovation Accorded New York Symphony.

Another musical triumph was recorded in Appleton Saturday with the presentation of a concert by the New York Philharmonic orchestra in Lawrence Memorial chapel. Appearing as piano soloist in the second number, Miss Gladys Yves Brannard of Lawrence Conservatory of Music received an ovation.

In the audience were many people who autoed here from all parts of the Fox river valley to hear the celebrated musicians. The chapel was comfortably filled. A pleasing surprise and rare privilege was accorded when Henry Hadley, composer of the third number, "The Cuckoo" appeared in person and directed the orchestra.
Tschakowsky's "Symphony No. 4," in E Major, Op. 36, was the first to be interpreted. Played in four movements under the direction of the skilled music master, Joseph Stransky
the symphony swayed with graceful ease from the quiet loveliness of day dreams to the more passionate notes of the sufferer, ending in the vigor of returning joy. The third movement interpreting neutral feelings neither joyous nor sad, was one of the most appreciated numbers of the orchestra.

The fourth and fifth interpretations were Wagner's prelude and "Love Death" from "Tristan and Isolde," and the prelude of "The Mastersingers."
Much of the music of the former was spirited, displaying the passions of the lover. In the latter there was a grandeur of orchestration for which the selection is noted, coupled with numberless delicate and melodious infections.

Swimming Meet
All high school boys who are interested in entering a swimming meet with the Fond du Lac high school have been asked to report to the physical department of the Y. M.
C. A. or to J. E. Dennison in the boys' department. Should the meet be arranged, it probably will be held ceived from the Fondy swimmers.

SECOND DISTRICT PUPILS SHOW REAL ARTISTIC SKILL

Exhibits Demonstrate Splendid Ability of Grade School Youngsters.

One of the most interesting and novel school exhibits ever held in the city was put on last week in the Second district, Wednesday evening in Lincoln school and Friday evening in the Columbus.

One of the most striking features of the exhibit was the demonstration of the art work showing the correlation between this department and that of sewing and manual training. Children in the very low grades are taught appreciation of color and the proper color combinations. Interior decorating, costume designing and applied design follow closely.

Novelties are made in the upper grades, such as painted coat hangers,
flower pots, and permedella beads.
Many of the girls in the upper grades
have designed attractive sport dresses of unbleached muslin with original designs in color.

The exhibit included artistically designed perfume bottles and designs in printing, paper cutting and tearing.

Special emphasis was placed on the correlation of the art work and sewing. Sewing bags, towels and garments were designed and worked patterns made by the pupils themselves. Some of the older girls made infant clothes.

The exhibits were shown in the separate rooms so that the work of each room might be compared with that of the next grade. Work in the music and manual training departments also was shown. Really remarkable work was done by the boys in the craft work of various kinds including taboretts, camp stools, ash
trays, book stands, electric table
lamp shades and other useful articles.

The musical program was as follows:
"The Trout" ..... Schubert
"The Cuckoo" ..... Schumann
Minuet ..... Mozart
Seventh grade
"The Nightingale" .....
Fourth grade
"What a Little Bird Said" .....
Fifth grade
Duet—"The Best Instrument" .....
Dorothy Smith, Celia La Montagne
"Geography" .....
Fourth and fifth grades
"Come, Come" .....
"Roses" .....
"Harvest Slumber Song" .....
Seventh grade

The musical program was under the direction of Miss Irene Bidwell, the drawing and sewing under the direction of Miss Bessie Mae Lovett and the manual training exhibit under the direction of Guy Barlow.
A social hour with dancing followed the inspection of the work.

AUGUST BRANDT
Proprietor of August Brandt Co.
I was a carpenter in 1904. That was the first job I remember having, outside of working for my father on the farm. I worked in the village of Black Creek for $28 a month.
A day at that time consisted of 14 hours. During off seasons I went back to the farm and helped my parents.
I went in business for the first time in 1906 when I opened a wagon shop in Black Creek. Later I turned the place into an implement shop.

FINDS DOC SAMMY'S CAP AND WINS MEAL TICKET

Miss Fern Salter of Fond du Lac is the Lawrence college champion "I Spy" player. She found Dr. Plantz's skull cap which was hidden in a walnut shell on the campus Friday morning. All of the student body was divided into groups to hunt the cap.
The searchers were all supplied with clever little carnival caps to be worn during the hunt. The caps were donated by W. O. Thiede.

Miss Salter was presented with a meal ticket as a reward for her pro-wesse in being the first to discover the hiding place of the missing cap. The hunt will in all probability be established as a tradition as Lawrence to be followed at each successive May day.

Autos Collide

Dean Becker of Kaukauna, while driving his car west on College ave.,
at 6 o'clock Friday night, collided with a car driven by an unidentified resident of Neenah. The Kaukauna car was trailing the other car and the accident was due to the forward intersection of Walnut-st. Both cars were slightly damaged, but no one was injured.

which W. S. Ford gave a talk mentioning its good points.

The clubs chose a program as follows: To assist in membership; keep the christian citizenship training program; Bible study; supply teachers stoves. In these days of high-priced fuel this feature ought to be the deciding one. The ARCOLA uses coal, coke, wood, gas or oil.

HARVEY AND THE LEAGUE

England seems to be somewhat surprised at Col. Harvey's positive declaration that the United States will not become a member of the League of Nations. It should not be surprised. Has it not been assured by President Harding that the League would have to go it alone, and by Senator Lodge again and again that the League was dead? Apparently England has not believed the cable reports, but has waited to hear the fatal message by word of mouth. Col. Harvey having delivered it, nothing remains for the League to do but disband or to proceed without the United States. Since it has been "proceeding" without this country ever since it was organized and shows no signs of disintegrating, we take it for granted it will not disband.

If the League sticks it will complicate the purpose of the administration to organize the same body over again under a different name. Possibly Europe may not be so anxious to go through all the fuss and delay of doing over again a great constructive work for peace merely because certain politicians of America demand it. The British press shows no disposition to advise disbandment of the League of Nations.

The Daily News of London expresses perplexity over the American attitude. It points out that the United States rejects the League but wants an association of nations to accomplish the same purposes. "Is it policy or politics?" it asks, "and if politics is it international or domestic?" People on this side will take this as a rather naive comment on American politics.

The Daily News, in common with everybody else in England, ought to know by this time, and we fancy they do know, that American participation in the peace league has been thus far frustrated by a small group of politicians in the senate, whose course reflects neither representative nor popular opinion. There is no objection on the part of the American people to membership in the League of Nations. For the most, there is only indifference. Intelligent thought, in every field of activity, has from the beginning favored American participation and still does. There is no record of any kind to dispute this, and an abundance of facts to prove it.

There is no international politics in America worth the name. All our politics is domestic. The Daily News may dismiss international politics from consideration in connection with the peace treaty. It may also dismiss policy. Only domestic politics is involved, and it is principally Lodge, Borah, Johnson politics. Whether this group is going to be able to control the administration to the final rejection of the League is still to be disclosed, Col. Harvey in the affirmative notwithstanding. The administration has not yet disposed of the peace problem. If Europe declines to give up the League for American politics, the position of the United States will not be enviable. The people everywhere demand steps to stop war. They are not an exception in this country. A policy of indifference, or of nonaction, in the face of the great work done at Versailles, would be fatal to any political party here. The people will get their second wind on the peace treaty before long. As yet the administration has made no progress toward sound peace except in line with the preceding administration. The question is, can it get away from following it in all respects in the essential matters of peace.

ALWAYS ASSOCIATED WITH FILTH

The killing of just one fly now means there will be billions and trillions less next summer. When we know that the mother fly lays 150 eggs at one time, and deposits six batches in her lifetime of five weeks, the appalling possibilities for spreading disease germs are evident. Every fly-speck abounds in germs. In the track of a single fly have been found one hundred and sixteen colonies of germs, and on and in the body of a single fly 6,600,000 germs.

The serious strain, both mental and physical, that the human system has undergone during the war has impaired the vitality and strength of the inhabitants of our country and made them more susceptible to the ravages of disease. The continued presence of flies in the home is a positive index that the housewife is careless and uncleanly in the management of the household and that a hidden abode is maintained for the fly family.

Under no circumstances patronize a restaurant, grocery store or butcher shop if flies are permitted to walk about on the food. Observation by the patrons will show the travels of the fly from filth to food, scattering the disease germs it has gathered. Watch the fly when you await the service of your meal. It will be an interesting and instructive experience. He plants his disease germs on your bread. He buries them in your butter; trails them over the sugar, sips your coffee and swims in the milk.

Eradicate all substance likely to afford breeding ground for the prolific insect. Clean up your premises. The unaccountable presence of the house fly in the home, which has often times baffled the endeavors of the tidy housekeeper, can be usually attributed to the attractiveness of the uncovered, unclean garbage pail in the kitchen or back yard.

Refuse from stables forms the chief substance in which flies deposit the eggs, and heaps of such material are the principal breeding places of these insects. They also breed on the occurrence of a suitable temperature in ashes, cow and fowl refuse, cesspools, straw and textile fabrics, such as woolen garments and sacking which have been fouled with material of human origin, mushrooms, decaying vegetables, fruits and foodstuffs, such as potato skins, melons, bananas, pears, apricots, cherries, plums, peaches, bread and milk, boiled eggs, bad meat and rotting grain, such as wheat.

Clean up and prevent the deadly pest from breeding. Kill flies and save lives.

THE OUIJA SLUMP

One of the most convincing evidences of a general return to sanity is the slump in the sale of ouija boards. The ouija craze is ebbing even more markedly than the craze for jazz music. There are fewer ouija parties, and there is less faith in that foolish contraption on the part of its devotees. This is doubtless more than the natural reaction which always follows abandonment to a fad. It means a growth in education and common sense. It was an especially pernicious fad, because it tampered so mischievously with people's brains and hearts, stirring up false hopes and fears and ministering to each in ways dangerous to any but well balanced minds.

Little by little, as a result of the warnings of psychologists and other students of mental phenomena, the public began to realize the real nature of the ouija board, or "planchette" as it used to be called, and the havoc it might play with people's minds. They discovered usually, without much delay, that ouija was not to be trusted. They began to realize later that, whether ouija told truth or lies, the messages had no supernatural origin, but came out of the operator's own subconscious mind or the mind of some other person present. They began to realize, too, that they were playing with forces which, while "natural", and subject to scientific laws, are so powerful and difficult to control that they are full of peril for the ignorant, and that even the highly trained expert cannot indulge in them with any assurance of safety.

But many never learned this lesson in time. There are men and women in insane asylums today as a result of credulous indulgence in this easy form of automatic writing, and there are thousands, perhaps, with minds warped or hearts broken by foolish faith in its revelations. The experts in modern psychology and the experts in ancient occultism are agreed on this fact—which cannot be too often repeated—that all amateur dabbling in "occult phenomena," whether for amusement or experimentation is dangerous.

AUTOTOGRAPHY—Chap. 10

Something Just as Good

If castor oil is unfit to inflict on a fellow when he has been to the circus with Uncle Harry and overlaid a square meal of peanuts with a couple of ice cream sodas and a bag of candy then what shall he have to clear out the overload? Is there any other physic just as good as castor oil for a baby or a boy or even a child?

Something just as good! That phrase seems to make Dad pensive. He says it is in bad odor, because it is usually employed by merchants who wish to sell a substitute for the thing a customer wants. And furthermore, father has suffered a couple of terrible disappointments in his early life—my two sisters. It seems that father ordered boys and in both cases Nature sent girls, with a little note explaining that the stock of boys was temporarily exhausted and she was sending a child which she assured father was just as good as a boy. A child is all very well, but in father's judgment she is no substitute at all for a boy.

Dad doesn't intend to be inspired or anything like that. He has no second sight. He believes thoroughly in giving medicines, but he gives medicines to produce a particular effect which he deems desirable and not because somebody else has blindly given the medicine and the patient happened to get better afterward. In short, father administers medicines on scientific principle, not on faith alone. On that principle he is forced to confess that if we were the patient he wouldn't take some of the medicines which are still prescribed by many physicians in a purely empirical way—on faith alone or because some old timer reported that John Jones got over his liver complaint after a course of calomel. On faith alone that might be taken to mean that calomel does something to the liver, but in fact calomel has no particular effect on the liver. Likewise on faith alone castor oil is endowed with some mysterious "healing" influence, though in fact it is as irritating as any other familiar physic. Dad therefore believes that castor oil should accompany calomel into the discard.

Once in a while a fellow might take some thorough physic to dispose of some such overload of food as I mentioned a moment ago. Instead of inducing castor oil or him, Dad recommends something rather better, called Aromatic Syrup of Rhu-barb. This is given in the same doses and for the same purposes as castor oil, and I'll tell the world a fellow doesn't mind taking this candy medicine whenever it may be necessary. As I say, Dad isn't the only good doctor in the world, but I'll take his candy medicine rather than the castor oil of any other doctor that ever prescribed for a sick kid.

If any fellow has a mother or a father or a grandmother or a doctor who insists that castor oil is just the stuff for whatever ails him, let me suggest that he get the attention of the misguided one to this chapter and see to it that the family medicine chest is provided with a bottle of Aromatic Syrup of Rhu-barb for emergencies and the castor oil is marked "Not to be Used Internally."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Color of Meat

Please tell me whether you recommend red meat for persons with kidney trouble. (A. J. B.)

ANSWER—Kidney trouble is a very vague phrase, so I have no answer to your question. In Bright's disease, as a general rule, there is no good reason why the patient should not take some meat. And if meat is allowed, it is of course immaterial what color the meat may be. The "red meat" myth is no longer entertained save by almanacs and mail order charlatans of various kinds.

Dorothy's Bad Hour

I am thirteen years old and very healthy. My father thinks I should go to bed at half past eight. Don't you think nine o'clock would be early enough for me now? (Dorothy W. F.)

ANSWER—Yes, in the good old summer time.

Floyd's Sweet Tooth

I am a boy fifteen years of age, 63½ inches tall and weigh 110 pounds. My father tell me I eat too much candy. I am as healthy as any boy. Candy never did make me sick. I eat mostly homemade candy. What I want to know is it injurious to me. I would like for you to answer me through your column. (Floyd D. W.)

ANSWER—No, not if you play as hard as the average boy of your age, and take the candy following regular meals. It is injurious if you eat the candy at irregular hours in the day, for that impairs your natural appetite for other essential foods. Candy in itself is not only wholesome but healthful for active growing girls and boys, even though it may not be good for inactive adults.

Own Your Own Home

By Frederic J. Haskin

New York City—Breathes there a man with a soul so dead who never to himself hath said: "Own Your Own Home?"

If so, let him attend the Own Your Own Home Exposition when it appears in his town and forthwith be converted.

This exposition has already been held in Chicago and New York, where it turned thousands of settled cliff dwellers into determined home owners, and is now on its way to various other cities.

Haskin

It consists of a whole miniature suburb, reproduced in elaborate detail, including many different types of attractive homes, set off by tiny gardens and dignified by that boon of the landscape gardener—the tall and stately cedar. Nothing is lacking in the way of homely realism, from the latest thing in laundry tubs to the best type of rambling rose for the front veranda. All that goes into the making of the modern American home as well as much that doesn't—is there before the dazzled gaze of the home seeker, to say nothing of the homes themselves. There are severe, little, stucco houses; quaint, little frame dwellings, large and pretentious brick houses—a wide selection to choose from.

All are reproductions of prize winning designs from a recent national small-house contest, which was held under the auspices of the American Institute of Architects, and in which a thousand architects took part. A nationally known architectural jury selected 29 designs in three classes (cumber, brick, and stucco and back plastered metal lath) for prizes totaling $15,000. The awards were governed principally by the economy of space shown in the floor plans, and preference was given to designs that would be reasonable in upkeep and reduce general operating expenses to a minimum.

For the exposition is designed to reach the great mass of small home builders. It strives to show the man with only a small amount of capital how he can build a comfortable, thoroughly up-to-date house at a surprisingly low cost, and thus escape exorbitant rent.

Home-building is not only desirable now, it is a necessity, the organizers of the exposition point out. According to Robert H. Sexton, its managing director, the national dwelling shortage at the close of last year was placed at the appalling figure of 1,250,000. "In normal times," he says, "the United States builds between 250,000 and 400,000 family dwellings each year. In 1919 only 35,000 such dwellings were erected, and in 1920 but 65,000 were reported. One-fourth of the population is either living in rented quarters or is improperly housed. The country is 1,000,000 homes short."

Effects of Housing Shortage

This situation, the home-building promoters declare, is a menace to the nation from two important aspects. First, it has a deleterious effect upon the public health. In New York a recent housing survey brought to light many instances where families of 12 and 15 members were living together in one and two rooms. The public health departments of other cities report a similar state of affairs. Nor is overcrowding confined to so-called slum districts; it is also found to prevail among the middle classes.

The scarcity of homes likewise breeds discontent, it is pointed out, and keeps a large part of the population restless and roving in quest of the good of the nation. It should be quickly housed. The homeless citizen, who drifts from one community to another, is seen to be a possible source of social and political disorder.

"The Government is beginning to realize that homeless citizens and families, rich and poor, are not usually the best American citizens," says Mr. Sexton. "It is beginning to realize that every additional home owner makes an additional credit possibility to the nation's wealth and an additional urge for all other forms of permanent construction."

In other words, Mr. Sexton believes the government is coming around to the Chastekian belief that under the system of private property, every citizen should be a private property owner.

Just what the Government intends to do about it, however, still remains a mystery. It is known to have acquired vast reams of information upon the subject; to have been deep in the consideration of public health reports on housing conditions and financial reports concerning mortgages and loans, as well as reports on rent increases in various cities; but the nation still awaits a home run from Congress. Senators Calder, Edge and Kenyon have made their important recommendations, but as yet nothing has come of them.

City Building Projects. Meaningless various cities have attempted relief measures. A few have themselves gone into the home-building business for the benefit of the public, while others have placed restrictive measures upon profiteering landlords. New York has made things as pleasant as possible for the home-building public by exempting its property from taxes for the next five years.

But for the most part, the would-be home owner is left to solve his difficulties for himself. He can either build a house at the present high cost of building materials, knowing that eventually that price must come down; or he can pay an exorbitant rent for a house which he never will, and probably wouldn't want to, own. In one case, he buys stock that is certain to go down; in the other, he pays a large state of interest on stock that belongs to someone else. Of the two alternatives building seems to offer the better returns.

Take, for instance, a house which costs $5,454, including the price of the land. If rented, the owner would demand 15 per cent profit on his investment, which would make the monthly rental $81.64. (In New York a house of this value would bring $100 a month.) Now the home-builder has only $1,250 invested in his property. He must pay interest on the mortgage in addition to the taxes, but together his entire carrying charges come to just $23 a month. In building he saved nearly $50 a month, which would have gone to a landlord had the house been occupied on a rental basis.

One of the greatest deterrents to home-building on a nation wide scale, of course, is the inability of a large number of citizens to obtain the necessary capital. They are perfectly willing to build homes, long to do so, in fact, but they cannot even begin to pay for the lumber. To these eager but thwarted "Own-Your-Own-Homes," perhaps the building and loan association is the best answer.

To the person who owns the land upon which he wishes to build, or who has saved enough to pay one-fourth or one-third on a piece of property, the building and loan association lends the necessary capital, which the borrower pays off in regular monthly payments.

The would-be home builder, who lacks even the one-fourth or one-third property interest required, would do well to join one of these associations and begin the accumulation as a savings investor until he can obtain a loan. A fair rate of interest is paid on savings accounts.

There are 8,000 of these building and loan associations in the United States, which are doing a real service to the people as well as making a great deal of money. It is estimated that the mortgages held by them now aggregate in excess of $2,500,000,000; their total membership is about 5,000,000 persons, and approximately 200,000 home purchase loans, totaling $500,000,000 were made by them last year. All of the associations are under the strict supervision of the Banking Departments of the states and are regularly examined the same as other savings institutions. Philadelphia probably owes its designation as the City of Homes to the great multitude of its savings and loan associations which are looked upon as the real hope of the Own-Your-Own-Home movement.

THE QUESTION BOX

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Question Box, 111 N. Main St., Appleton, Wis. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. Please describe the Jewish flag and tell when it originated. L. W. C.
A. The Jewish flag is composed of five horizontal stripes. The two outside stripes are white, the remaining two, stripes, blue. In the center of the flag is the Star of David. The exact origin of the flag is not known, but it dates from the eleventh or twelfth century.

Q. Is it proper to wear a silk hat with a Tuxedo suit? M. J.
A. A high hat is not worn with a Tuxedo. It is correct to wear a Derby, a soft hat or a straw hat.

Q. If a man flies on a homestead and off in commercial qualities is devalued in the vicinity, how does this affect his rights and title? J. C. M.
A. The General Land Office says that if you filed the claim and obtained the patent on the land before the passing of the Oil Land Leasing Act of Feb. 26, 1902, you are, according to Section 20 of said act, entitled to the oil and gas found on the land.

Q. If you filed your entry after the passing of the Oil Land Leasing Act, the mineral rights are reserved to the Government, and you cannot obtain them.

Q. How much is a Chinese tael in American money? M. B. F.
A. The Chinese tael is not a coin, but merely a slug of silver, and its value varies in different parts of China. The half-tael, or customs tael of China is fixed by treaty at 37.80 grams. With silver at 60 cents a troy ounce, this tael is worth 72.3 cents.

Q. Frequently when reading a stamp article a person finds such terms as "engraved," "lithographed," and "typographed." What do these terms mean? G. E. O.
A. Stamps are produced by five different methods—Engraving, or copperplate line engraving; Ename, or typography-surface printing; lithography; embossing and type-writing as in book and newspaper printing. The terms "lithographed," "engraved," denominate the process whereby the stamps were produced. For instance, in lithography the printing is done from a stone and the result is quite flat, as opposed to the effect produced by printing from engraving.

Q. In cribbage, how much does a hand count composed of 3 trays and a nine when a tray is turned? W. T. S.
A. Four, sometimes called Double Pairs Royal or Deprolls, always count 12. There are 6 different pairs, therefore there are 6 fiftens to be counted and the hand totals 24.

Q. How much money is expended

Appleton, Wis.

in the United States for education. Has this increased or decreased since 1907? J. L. Y.

A. It is estimated by the Bureau of Education that the cost of education in the United States in 1915 was $1,018,000,000. The total expenditures in 1900 were only $214,864,618. Q. Where can I secure an instrument which will locate gold and silver which has been buried for a number of years? G. A. T.

A. Many inquiries have been received regarding divining rods, mineral rods, etc., with reference to their adaptability for locating buried treasures, gold and silver ores, petroleum, etc. The extravagant claims set forth by people who sell such contrivances have never been substantiated. The U. S. Geological Survey traces the history of the divining rod, (as this is called) back to the sixteenth century. Special instruments, such as the dip needle, the magnetometer, and the dial compass have been successfully used in prospecting for magnetic iron ores in this and other countries. Such instruments are not useful in prospecting for precious metals or ores that have no magnetic effect.

AFTERNOON WEAR

For the informal afternoon affair the gray chiffon which Miss Billie Wedgewood of the Lady Billy company wears, is just the thing. Artificial flowers at the waist line and a generous design in silver lace give it a festive touch. The hat is of lace and straw—and could you see its top, would you, it is a great success.

THE BOOK OF MARTHA

In The Midst of a Mob

Soon we perceived that it would be useless for us to make any plans for the rescue of Ann. Martha observed: "It would be as easy to get Ann out of this besieged fortress as to extricate ourselves from this crowd! We've got to stay right where we are, Jane!"

We had parked our car in a corner of the paved court which separated the courthouse from the prison. Seated in it, the last in a long row of autos, we were caught in the mob!

Following the first few feeble efforts of the mob came the mutter and growl of the slower moving throng. Then a mass of angry men flowed around the corner of the street, and with a roar and a rush, filled the place, as water fills a canal lock when the upper gate is opened.

My coupe was wedged into that edge of the crowd which was close to the woman's wing of the prison. From where we sat, Martha and I could see the steps which led to the jail offices and the mob leaders who guarded the men working with torches at the locks of the entrance doors.

From dozens of throats came directions of other would-be leaders. Orders were shouted to blockade the back of the prison.

"I'm shaking!" I clutched Martha's arm. "It's such an old building! Lots of it would burn like kindling! Poor little Ann—what can we do? What can we do Martha. I must phone to Bob!"

"A good plan—if you can find a way through that pack!" Martha in deicated the besiegers.

"It's utterly hopeless! I'm afraid, Martha! Afraid for you, for Ann, for myself, for that white-faced wretch the mob is after!"

"Probably Ann is safer than we are," Martha replied. "Let's hope the man is, too. Don't worry, Jane. Even if they break into the jail, these chaps will not go near the women's block of cells."

As if to deride Martha, Fate spoke in the voice of a big man near us. "Search the women's wing! They'll hide the gunk there!"

"Sure—he'll be with the skirts!" yelled another.

"The dames' cells are on the left—" Suddenly the door of the jail office opened, so suddenly that the men working at the locks almost fell on their faces. As suddenly, it came to with a bang, and the sheriff, unarmed, stood before the crowd. He stood alone and raised one hand as if asking for silence, and the mob knew him for a brave man and held its breath for a second or two and let him speak.

"Boys, I've come out to tell you that I'm going to do my duty! You know I've sworn to take care of that man and now, buddies, I'm asking you to give me—and the law a fair chance—" But when did an unthinking mob ever give anybody a fair chance?

Came an interruption, a warning from one of the eager manhunters. "Don't listen, fellows! No parley, I say! Finish it—before the cops get here!"

"Finish it—before the firemen come with their hose!" yelled a young son of mischief.

Adventures of the Twins

Olive Roberts Barton

In the Great Desert, Flippety-Flap, the little fairyman, and Nancy and Nick, his twin helpers, jumped down from the high red and-gold band-wagon, where they had been talking things over, and started off to hunt up grumpy old Caliph Camel. They were going to search for him out in the Brown Desert in the Land-Of-Far-Away-As-the-Eye-Can-Reach.

Flippety-Flap took one step in his enormous shoes which landed him in a dell where the violets were starting to bloom. The kiddies in their Magic Shoes were right after him. Then the fairyman took another stride and this time nearly knocked Robin Redbreast and his brand-new family from their abode in the sweet-apple tree which was covered with pinky white blossoms.

"My, my!" exclaimed Flippety-Flap turning to wait for his helpers. "I do hope Mr. Camel won't be obstinate!"

Spring's right on top of us, and it's time for the circus. I think you may take off your caps and sweaters now without catching cold, children."

The third step took the little fellow right into the middle of the ocean and he was so surprised that he almost got wet. But magic shoes are magic and nothing happened. The fourth step brought him right to the edge of the Great Brown Desert and the fifth landed him not a yard away from the Green Oasis where Caliph Camel lived. Nancy and Nick still at his heels. They looked up in astonishment at the high palm trees. Every where else was sand, more sand, and some more sand!

"Wonder where the old boy is!" said Flippety-Flap looking around. He was answered by a snore. "Ha," whispered the fairyman knowingly. "The heat has made him sleepy. So much the easier for us!"

HUBER BILL WILL HELP EMPLOYERS

Dr. Commons Says Unemployment Bill Removes Stumbling Block in Business.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison—That neither labor as a class nor the government, politically, can ever successfully manage industry was the statement made Thursday afternoon by Dr. John R. Commons, University of Wisconsin, former member of the industrial commission, discussing the Huber unemployment insurance bill which he drafted. Dr. Commons appeared in support of the measure before the senate judiciary committee.

He declared that labor and government cannot manage industry successfully because the heads, the managers, would be ineffective. "The heads of industry are never elected, they are developed and chosen because of their ability," he said.

Dr. Commons declared the labor turnover was the most expensive factor in industry and said Henry Ford had made his millions by reducing the labor turnover. He said that the wages of his men and they were not only satisfied to remain on the job but were in fact increasing the production. Had Ford done as most others in industry did and are doing, his company would have been compelled to employ 200,000 men a year to maintain a force of 50,000 but instead he employs less than 25,000 new men a year.

The proposed unemployment insurance measure is based upon the principles of the workmen's compensation act, for industrial accidents, he said. A substitute amendment was offered to the original bill providing that the industrial commission should place the law into effect when business recovers from the present depression. He said no one believes the legislature should do anything to relieve the present depression, and unemployment but this bill is aimed to prevent similar conditions in the future when business has recovered.

URGE WOMEN AS HEALTH OFFICERS

Believe Women Will Take Greater Interest in Health of Community.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison—In the common failure of many Wisconsin cities, villages or towns to find competent men for the post of health officer or members of local health boards, the state board of health sees excellent reason for suggesting the service of women in such capacities. The refusal of an appointed health officer to qualify or serve is a frequent occurrence, due usually to the small compensation or plain indifference.

The health officer's post is held by laymen in a large proportion of Wisconsin municipalities and towns, and it is often difficult to enlist in this position the wholehearted efforts of lay citizens, especially where the public service fails of recognition by the people. Medical men as health officers also are often subject to the same deterrents.

Women, the department believes, are keenly interested in health and community concerns, and some are to be found in every community to whom proper health administration appeals strongly. Among them may be chosen appointees who undoubtedly would perform the functions of health officer or member of a health board with a true appreciation of their duties for the public protection.

Local boards of health usually are composed of three members. That one of these, at least, should be a qualified woman is held not only consistent but a wise public policy as a means of bringing woman's influence to bear for the proper enforcement of public health laws and a stricter accountability of all persons and interests to the demands of a good health administration.

A procedure of this kind is not new in Wisconsin. At present there are a half dozen woman health officers. Oshkosh, one of the largest cities, has had a full-time woman official for several years.

5 YEAR OLD CHILD IS BADLY BURNED

Milwaukee—A 5 year old girl is at the point of death at Emergency hospital, suffering from severe burns about her face and body, which she received after playing with a box of matches in her home at 1320 Vine street.

The child, Elinore Pokorny, early Sunday afternoon left the dinner table and sat on the floor of the kitchen playing with a large box of matches which she had found. She ignited a few and seemed delighted as they burst into flames.

Soon the matches ignited the entire box and her clothes were a mass of flames. Hearing her screams, the child's parents rushed to the scene, but the little victim was already dead.

The little victim was rushed to Emergency hospital, where she was given treatment where the doctor said that the child will probably die, although there is some chance of saving her life by grafting skin to her body.

It is probable that, if the child lives, her parents will be asked to give some of their flesh to be grafted on the body of their child.

John Kohonlek, 30 years old, who lives next door to the Pokorny home, soon after he heard of the accident went to the rear of his home and attempted to extinguish a bonfire, with the result that he was burned about the hands and face.

He was taken to Emergency hospital, where his wounds were dressed and he returned to his home.

FATHER IN CUSTODY; CHARGE KIDNAPING

Watertown — Cornelius Trachte, formerly of this city, is being brought back from Long Beach, Calif., by Undersheriff P. L. Waterbury of Jefferson county, to face charges preferred here by his wife of kidnaping their daughter, in connection with a suit for divorce.

Trachte, who was formerly in business here, was sued for divorce by his wife and left the city. Papers in the case were served on him in Milwaukee by a ruse. This is alleged angered the defendant so that he went west, taking his daughter with him in defiance of the court.

He was arrested by the California authorities on complaint of District Attorney R. C. Twining of this county. The original warrant in the case was issued by Judge Schmutzler of this city.

HOLD HEARING TO REVISE DISTRICTS

Senate Wrestles With Problem of Reapportioning Voting Divisions of State.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison—The special joint reapportionment committee will hold a public hearing next Thursday evening May 26, on the legislative reapportionment bill, No. 4778, which was introduced into the upper house Thursday by the committee and referred to it for hearing.

The bill as introduced, increases the number of assembly districts in Milwaukee county from 18 to 20, in Racine county from 2 to 3 and in Kenosha county from one to two. One district is taken from Winnebago county, leaving it but two; one from Jefferson county, leaving but one; and the other from Washburn and Green Lake counties as was in the bill introduced by Adams and Green Lakes with Marquette.

Minor changes are made in a number of the counties which have two districts, while the changes in Milwaukee county are of greater importance. The joint committee had appointed a sub-committee composed of the four Milwaukee members to recommend a reapportionment of Milwaukee county. This sub-committee was unable to agree and three different plans were presented to the committee Wednesday evening, only one of which, was complete and it was tentatively adopted by the committee and incorporated in the bill.

That does not mean that the bill as introduced will be the bill that is ultimately presented to the legislature for passage. In scheduling the bill for a public hearing the committee is inviting any citizen to propose a better plan. Chairman Bird, however, declared it must be understood that any suggestions made to the committee for changes in assembly districts must also be worked out to prove that they will conform in the senate districts.

It is one thing to make an apportionment of the assembly and senatorial districts," said Senator Bird, "but it is an entirely different thing to make that apportionment comply with the constitution and the rulings of the supreme court. In the first place the assembly districts must be bound by county, town or ward lines, of contiguous territory as compact as practicable and as nearly equal in population as possible. Then the senatorial districts must contain two or more assembly districts in their entirety and must also be contiguous and compact.

NEW BULLETIN TELLS ABOUT SPRAYING METHODS

Madison—A new bulletin briefly outlining methods of spraying fruit trees and gardens has just been published by the state department of agriculture and is being sent out this week. It gives in condensed form the materials to use for the spraying of apple, cherry, and plum trees and the time of application, and in addition, the methods of controlling garden insects and plant diseases, such as potato leaf-hopper, blight, and scab. Copies of the bulletin are sent on request. It is entitled "The Control of Insects and Plant Diseases", by S. E. Fracker of the state department of agriculture, and R. E. Vaughan of the college of agriculture.

"But that is not all. The senatorial districts must be so apportioned that they will not place two holdover senators in the same district, and that is one of the hardest jobs the committee has had to contend with."

SEES NO CHANGE IN SCHOOL SYSTEM

Madison—That the education system of the state will not be changed seems to be the prevailing opinion among the legislators as the week opens in which all the educational bills will be considered. The Skogmo bill reorganizes all the state educational activities virtually under the head of the state board of education. The Olson bill would abolish the board and place all the work under the state superintendent.

The compromise measure will undoubtedly be the Ridgeway bill. This bill simply provides for an investigating committee to report its findings and recommendations to the next legislature.

That there has been a large personal element that has entered into the fight so far, all will agree. It is to avoid this and to present a really comprehensive report that will be for the best interests of the state that the Ridgeway bill will probably be pushed through.

"Representatives and salesmen of these worthless securities appear to know their victims," said the official, "and when they can no longer load their securities upon them they turn them over to others. The purchasers seldom reveal the fact they have been stung and always have hope of some time realizing on their investment."

"A few months ago many farmers of the county traded their liberty bonds for foreign securities of questionable value, but these were gilded edge compared to some which they have since accepted."

GIVES EASY RULES FOR PUNCTUATION

One of the first things that must be learned by the young man or woman who sets out to become a thoroughly competent stenographer is the proper use of punctuation. Morris W. Croll, Ph. D., of the Department of English, Princeton University, has contributed an interesting and highly instructive chapter on this subject in The New Universities Dictionary being offered to the readers of this paper.

Professor Croll explains how the number of punctuation marks in common use has gradually increased with the development of the art of printing. Through the use of these signs the meaning of printed or written discourse is rendered clearer to the eye of the reader. How and when to use each of the twelve marks now employed is fully explained by Professor Croll, and the rules he lays down can be easily learned.

The remarkable success which has attended this dictionary offer shows that the people of this city appreciate the opportunity given them to secure at a nominal cost such a valuable educational work.

PAINTERS IMPROVING APPLETON-ST. PLACES

Just at present Hotel Appleton is being given a coat of dark red paint and a new flag staff is to be erected that will float a 12-foot flag on which will appear the words, "Hotel Appleton." A new electric sign bearing the same words which is to extend across Appleton-st. will be erected within the next few days.

Painters also are improving the appearance of George Loos' building on the opposite side of the street. The work of painting the Wolter Implement Co. building immediately south has just been completed.

Capt. Schwahn Completes 25 Years As A Fireman

Veteran Fireman Says Conditions Are Different Than Quarter Century Ago.

Emil Schwahn, captain of company No. 3 of the fire department, rounded out 25 years of service Sunday. He entered the department May 22, 1906, about two years after the firemen were transferred from a volunteer to paid basis. Capt. Schwahn, Chief George P. McGowan, Assistant Chief Nicholas Reiter and Capt. Michael Calnin are the only four remaining members of the older fire fighting force.

The captain was assigned to the house company at No. 1 station under the late Chief Albert Anderson. Later he was transferred to the former No. 3 station in the Fourth ward. Serving as pipeman, he was promoted about one and a half years later to lieutenant. Four years ago he was made captain of No. 3 company, upon the resignation of Capt. Thomas Day. Capt. Schwahn was transferred back to No. 1 house last fall, when the city discontinued the Fourth ward station.

"The never boys in the department have never experienced such fire as we had in the old days," said Capt. Schwahn. "We had some big ones to fight. In those days we went to a fire, put it out and were done. Nowadays we make regular inspections and operate under fire laws. Prevention has become the rule, so when a fire does break out, it has little chance to gain much of a start. The cause of every fire is investigated and a report sent to the state fire marshal. Sprinkler systems in the factories and other fire fighting and prevention devices also make a difference."

ENTERTAINMENT FOR VISITING ATHLETES

Cars took them on sight seeing trips all over the city and community.

A girl guide was sent with each car to point out places of interest. The booth committee consisted of William Wright, Harry Colvin, Mark Peacock, Allen Hackworthy, Leigh Hooley, John Burk, Lawrence Singer, John Vincent and Victor Werner.

The girl guides were Althea Tobie, Margaret Luce, Letha Dambuch, Dorothy Pierce, Dorothy Seidl, Roberta Westenberg and Winifred Wood. Cars were provided to take the Lawrence band and the athletes to and from Lawrence field.

HEALTH FOR HEART DISEASE

[Monday Health Talk No. 23, by James A. Rolfe, D. C.]

There is no more terrifying disease than heart trouble. The victim lives in constant fear of over-exertion. The emotional exhilaration of exercise is denied them. A child so afflicted is particularly unfortunate. Chiropractic spinal adjustments restoring a normal flow of spinal nerve impulses into the heart and adjacent muscles is a directly effective and scientific method of getting at troubles of this character.

Can Exercise Now

"About four months ago I was suffering with a very bad case of heart trouble. I could not play or exercise because of the effect it had on my heart.

"The principle of chiropractic was explained to me and I tried it. I continued for sixty adjustments. Now I am taking plenty of exercise. The pounding that used to bother me has entirely disappeared.

"I consider chiropractic a wonderful science." — R. E. Strocker, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 12628.

WAS KIND TO BRUTE; ATTACK IS HIS PAY

George Fiedler, Seymour, member of county board of supervisors, is almost convinced that being humane to a steer is a thankless job. He is thinking about it while resting in bed as a result of injuries received Saturday when he tried to be good 'to a refractory animal.

Mr. Fiedler was on his way from a farm near Seymour with several steers when the animals ran amuck, sporing several horses and then laid down and refused to move. It finally was necessary to place a rope about the animal's body and drag it into the stockyards where it lay exhausted. Mr. Fiedler, feeling sorry for the brute, poured a pail of water over it and the next instant the infuriated animal charged him, pushing him over and trampling on him. Quick rescue work saved him from more serious injury but his body was a mass of bruises when the animal was driven away.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

Hagar, whose biographical sketch in "Who's Who in America" takes up about a half column to relate his great services to education.

The New Universities Dictionary has not a dry line in the whole book—every page is of vital interest. Besides the best vocabulary ever printed, it contains twenty-two separate and distinct vocabularies of special activities, such as automobiling, golf, war, aviation, music, and many other arts, sciences and sports. Furthermore, it presents special dictionaries of Americanisms, foreign words and phrases, etc.

The book that this paper thus places within your grasp at the bare cost of handling is illustrated with expensive pictures, alone worth more than the reader is asked to contribute to the cost of distributing. # APPLETON LOSES TO MENASHA BEFORE IMMENSE CROWD

MENASHA BUNCHES HITS WHEN NEEDED AND WINS, 4 TO 3

Errors Partially Responsible for First Defeat of Appleton Crew.

SUNDAY'S RESULTS
Menasha, 4; Appleton, 3.
Kimberly, 7; Kaukauna, 5.
New London, 3; Oshkosh, 2.

Young Mr. Weisgerber who cavorted in Brandt's center garden a week ago, shifted over to Menasha on Sunday and played a big part in Menasha's 4 to 3 victory over Brandt's pennant aspirants. Catcher Day's inability to hold Schultz's shots gave Menasha the one run needed to win. This heart-breaking event occurred in the sixth inning and happened like this:

After Weisgerber had rolled out Neuman plattered the ball against the centerfield fence for three bases. Webb struck out but Day missed the third ball and Neuman crossed the plate before it could be recovered and Webb rested on the first sack. Kammer then singled to right sending Webb to third from where he tried to score on a single to right but was cut off at the plate on a splendid peg by Murphy to Day.

About 2,000 fans saw the battle and got all kinds of baseball thrills. The ball was hit hard and often but excellent support cut off a lot of bases.

Both teams hit in the first inning but there was nothing doing in the way of runs until the second when Menasha sent a button across on two hits. Weisgerber started the fire works with a single and then stole second, finishing the journey when Webb whaled the ball to left for two bases. The next two were easy outs.

That run was a signal to Brandt's men to get busy and before the smoke cleared away the Appleton crew had sent two men over the plate. Schultz rolled out as a starter and then Beyer singled, stole second and kept on going to third when the peg to second went into centerfield. Duraun busted a two base drive, scoring Beyer and Day followed with a single, sending Duraun home. Day was too anxious to stretch his blow into a double and was run down between the bases, ending the fireworks.

Menasha evened up the count in the fourth on two singles and a stolen base, Zelinski registering the counter. Menasha added another to its string in the fifth on two singles and a stolen base. Buxby getting credit for the score. Another run was scored in the sixth and then there was nothing doing until the eighth when Brandt's men added another to their total. Spies started by beating out a bunt and went to third when Beyer singled to the left field fence. Weisgerber's wild pitch scored Spies but the next three men were easy outs.

Appleton tried hard to come back in the ninth but Weisgerber was working in good form and the home boys went hitless.

Watching The Scoreboard

Sunday's hero—Falk. The White Sox outfielder hit a homer with the bases loading beating Washington, 6 to 2.

Barnes held the Pirates safe for seven innings but they scored eight runs in the last two frames and beat the Giants, 8 to 6.

Whitted, Carey, Burns and Snyder hit homers.

Speaker's two doubles and Coveleskie's pitching gave the Indians a 5 to 0 victory over the Red Sox.

Ward's triple and a single by Mays in the tenth inning gave the Yankees a 6 to 5 victory over the Browns.

The Athletics scored five runs in the tenth inning and beat Detroit, 9 to 6.

Trained Feet Make Baseball Supers

Above is shown batting stances of the Most Valuable Feet in Baseball.

Trained feet are the most valuable assets a ball player has.

If they aren't trained all the base ball ability in the world from the feet up won't make a star out of him.

Diamond chatters are sold by the head, yet it is the feet that score the runs that win the games.

One of the first things a big league manager asks himself when he looks over a player on the minor markets is, "How much do his feet know?"

When he sees how the youngster handles his feet at the plate he gets a line on just how good a hitter that rookie is or is likely to become.

If his feet act as if they knew something when facing a pitcher there is hope. If the feet behave badly the odds are against the owner ever becoming a baseball luminary.

Some feet can be quickly trained. Others can't.

The minor leagues are a school for training feet as well as heads and eyes and arms.

The feet of Babe Ruth—The King—are worth thousands to him at the bat. They work with his home run swing like the hands of a clock.

As a fielder Babe's feet aren't so well trained. This year with Bambino grown up into a 200 pounder they have a heavy load to carry.

The feet of George Sisler are the fastest in baseball. They are 100 per cent accurate at bat and superb in the field.

George Kelly's under pinning is not so graceful. He stands with his feet wide apart when facing a pitcher. But lanky George is getting results in spite of his graceless stance at bat.

And his "dogs" are becoming more educated every day.

Tommy Speaker's feet are more famed for their uncanny skill in running down flies than they are at bat but Spoke possesses natural gracefulness in everything he does.

Speaker's feet have chased thousands of baseballs during his long career. They are off the instant the opposing batter swings. They take him to the exact spot where the ball is hit in his territory.

Ty Cobb's feet, like Speaker's, are highly trained in every angle of base ball—batting, running, sliding or fielding. They have done everything brilliantly that it is possible to do during his brilliant career.

It's what the feet know that makes a man an ordinary player, a star or a super.

Carpentier's Career

Georges Carpentier has come to the United States from France to fight Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight title less known than any fighter who ever went into a world championship fight. Hal Cochran, in this story of Carpentier's life, written for the Post-Crescent, tells of the struggles of the one-time mine pit boy in rising to the light-heavyweight championship of the world.

BY HAL COCHRAN
Chapter 2

In the first year of fighting, Georges Carpentier had occasion for very little test of endurance. He had developed a flashy, dancing style of boxing, and seldom found it necessary to stay in the ring longer than four rounds. His mazy right mitt usually found an opening early in the bout.

Early in 1908, after scoring his first real knockout, against Monereau, a countryman, in three rounds, he was matched to meet a jockey by the name of Salmon.

This fighter had earned a reputation through cleaning up on all of the flyweight scrappers in the territory. Carpentier was several years younger than Salmon, and many rounds lighter. Eight fans were amused at such a match. "What chance did the little slender fellow have?"

His Longest Fight
At any rate the bout was staged—scheduled as a 20-round affair. It took Carpentier through his longest fight, thus far, and cleared up all suspicion that he would run out of wind, in a long contest, because of his peppiness from the first bell.

Georges stuck it out for 18 rounds and quit then, only after his backers had tossed a towel in the ring. Salmon had knocked him down many times and had all the best of the argument.

This bout, incidentally, was the second with Salmon Carpentier had won the first on a foul but was not satisfied with that sort of a win. He himself insisted on the second scrap.

Got Cheese Money
In spite of defeat, in the 18 round go, there was a bright side for Carpentier and Descamps. Georges drew down about $3 for his share of the proceeds and this came in handy for crackers and cheese. Little money rattled in their jeans in those days. They were going from camp to camp on foot picking up grub change as they went along.

In the closing days of that year Carpentier won a six-round battle with Legrand, a much-touted boxer, and fought 6 and 20 round draws with Legrand, another fighter who stood high in the circles.

He had now passed the 15-year mark and remarkable development had taken place. His weight held him in the flyweight class, however.

Early in 1909 Georges turned the tables on his previous two-time opponent, getting a decision over Salmon in 10 rounds. Shortly after this he was matched with Gloria, the demon of the day in France. For five rounds Carpentier looked a winner. Then a sudden blow was slipped over and Georges went down and out. It was the first time he had taken the count.

String of Knockouts
In the following days Carpentier knocked out Lampin, in 8 rounds; Weunck, in 1 round; Dorgeville, in 11 and Lampin, in 7. And he won from Legrand in 15, Archaine, in 10, Chevalier, in 6, Reiling, in 6, Dourgeville, in 10, Ledoux, in 15, and Galliard, in 6.

He then grew into the bantamweight class, towards the close of 1909, and fought a 20 round draw with Paul Till. Till had beaten Gloria, who knocked Georges out, and anxious to meet Till, Carpentier was matched with him again.

(The next story carries Carpentier through many victories in the featherweight and lightweight divisions.)

list, and his pitchers haven't come through, yet he has kept his team right around the .500 mark in the percentage column. We don't think he is yet deserving of the "Miracle Man" title but at that the scrappy little manager has worked wonders with his squad of ball tossers.

Those Pittsburgh Pirates surely are traveling at a pennant winning gait in the National League and unless they crumble away before long, the game from Smoketown is going to pile up such a big lead that it will be tough sledding to halt its flag rush.

Gibson's crew is playing bang baseball and is winning games strictly on their merits. Five regulars are batting over .300 and the pitchers are ambling along at a merry clip. Any team that can cop 24 out of the first 30 games surely has pennantville ideas.

REALTY TRANSFERS
Among the real estate transfers recorded at the office of register of deeds Saturday were: John Weirnsch to August Weirnsch, lot in Kaukauna, consideration, $1,000, Peter Danforth to Julius Duprez, 48 acres in Oneida, $3,600; Edward Wendland to John Gerhart, lot in Kaukauna, consideration, $1,080.

Some folks sing "Over the Hills and Far Away." Babe Ruth illustrates it.

Just a reminder: rust is piling up on a lot of ice skates that weren't put away with care.

Cheer up! Maybe folks who can't get to Jersey to see the big fight, will

Sport Views And News

With the big scrap still over a month off, it seems as if the world has gone fight crazy. The international issue at stake in the conflict between Dempsey and Carpentier adds greatly to the interest in the affair and it probably will attract the largest crowd that ever attended a pugilistic encounter. Europe is all "hot up" over the coming battle and the foreigners are hoping against hope that the Frenchman will come through with a victory over Battling Jack. However, they aren't inclined to back up their hopes with the almighty dollar. Dempsey will probably be an odds on favorite when the gladiators step into the ring, July 2.

Johnny Evers and his Chicago Cubs are doing mighty well these days considering the path of tough luck which they have been floundering in ever since the training season opened. Evers has had a number of his crack pitchers on the hospital

KAUKAUNA LOSES BATTING FEST TO KIMBERLY, 7 TO 5

Kimberly Hits Ball When Hits Count and Win Hard Fought Battle.

Kaukauna baseball team was defeated in its second game of the season by Kimberly Sunday at Kaukauna ball park, 7 to 5. Kaukauna led in hitting, getting 12 clean drives off Marty Lamers while Kimberly clouted only 10 safe hits. Lamers and Schmidt each struck out seven opponents. Close to 700 fans were in the gates when the game began.

Kimberly started to score in the first inning. Cavel fled to right field, then Loos was given a life on a wild throw to first. Then, one of Kimberly's heaviest hitters, belted the homehide for three bases, sending Loos over the plate. T. Lamers struck out, but Stegeman muffed the ball and the batter beat the ball to first, then scoring on the play.

Marty Lamers retired the side in short order, catching a fly hit by Shovel and assisting in putting out Johnson, who hit into Marty's mitt. Minkbeige was hit on a pitched ball but he was caught off first base after taking too big a lead.

In the second, third and fourth innings, Kimberly put up only nine batters, five of them whiffing and the other four going out on easy flies. Kaukauna started the second inning with a hit. Schmidt struck out and Wittig followed with a two bagger but they died on the paths when Nagan fanned and Stegeman flied to second base.

The Electric city scored in the fourth inning after Lamers had retired two men. Huber was given a base on balls and Schmidt landed on one for two bases. Wittig repeated the act, sending Huber and Schmidt to the outfield, running, sliding or fielding. They have done everything brilliantly that it is possible to do during his brilliant career.

It's what the feet know that makes a man an ordinary player, a star or a super.

Lammers was hit by a pitched ball in the seventh inning. The homehide grazed his stomach but close enough to knock him out of wind. It took several minutes before he was able to sit up, and he was unable to return to the game. Boyle taking his place in the field.

Kaukauna's chance to win the game came in the seventh, when Shovel planted a two base hit and Minkbeige followed with another.

The batsman failed to touch first base and he was called out when the ball was thrown to first. Shovel's base was not counted since he scored on the play in which the last man was put out.

It was after the seventh inning that the Kaukauna players became so disgusted with the umpire that they did not put forth their best efforts, but in spite of that, Kimberly failed to score again. In the last half of the ninth Stegeman started a rally by hitting two bases. Felthausen fanned and Shovel fanned, but Johnson hit safely, sending Stegeman over the plate. Fans who were leaving the grounds, began to return, expecting a sensational comeback. Minkbeige clouted a long single, enabling Johnson to score. Huber ended the game when he hit to short and was thrown out at first.

BEST LAID PLANS FALL APART WHEN MEN MEET IN RING

Dempsey Expected to Fight Same Kind of Battle Which Defeated Willard.

BY JOHNNY KILBANE, Featherweight Champion
What will Jack Dempsey's plan of battle in his fight with George's Carpenter be?

Kilbane

That is a question that has been asked and will be asked many times. It is a hard one to answer, as plans laid before a fight, especially one of this importance, are generally knocked to pieces before the men have gone very far.

Plans of battle are usually laid, or rather made, by one opponent for the other. That is, each must adapt himself to the other's offense and defense when the battle is actually on.

It is idle to say before the men step into the ring that Dempsey will do this and that, or that Carpenter will do so and otherwise. Of course, each has his particular style, or specialty, but circumstances very often alter styles.

How Others Fought
Joe Gans was a consistent counter-puncher. Terry McGovern rushed in head down and tried to batter his men down with sheer strength and speed of attack. Jim Corbett hooked and jabbed with his left and did much footwork. Jeffries crouched, boxed cautiously and when the opportunity presented itself did most of his work with a natural left to head or body. Willie Ritchie favored a right to the body and a straight line (not a right cross) to the chin, and so on down the line.

Basing my belief on what I have seen Dempsey and Carpenter do in action, I believe that Dempsey will rely largely on getting inside, hammering the body with his right and then bringing the left over to the head. I do not see how he can afford to do otherwise. The champion fights from side to side, while Carpenter steps in and out, using a fast one-two.

Jack Must Fight
If Carpenter does not vary from his style, Dempsey would be foolish to stand off and attempt to box with the Frenchman. He could not catch him with such tactics, his opponent being too fast and smart at this sort of a game. A little pullback and Dempsey would miss, leaving him open for a fine counter.

In his fight with Willard the press'ent champion's first punch was a right smash under the heart, following a fraction of a second later with a sort of a left and half hook to the jaw, which sent big Jess over for the first knockdown. That is what I expect Dempsey to attempt to do the moment the bell sends them away.

Will Let Jack Lead
What Carpenter will try when he starts also is hard to predict. I believe that he will permit Dempsey to do all of the starting, that he will be cautious to the point of creating the belief that he is not much in love with the issue—a little bit afraid, to be perfectly plain and frank.

Speed of hand and foot he undoubtedly has, and as they are his principal assets, unless he has developed some thing of which we know nothing at this time, they must be his principal stock in trade, with the style of fighting as we have known it when he starts to go.

Despite the early hour a large gallery was present when the contestants in the first round gathered at the club house before eight o'clock. The American, including Chick Evans, their champion, Francis Oulmet and Bill Fownes, captain of the team, gathered about Bobby Jones, selected by the draw to start the championships. Anxious for a look at the "boy wonder," the gallery crowded around the group of Americans. Instead of hearing choice bits of advice handed out by the veterans of international play to the youngster, who was about to make his debut in the game's great classic, they listened to a general argument about the chances of the American polo team in the coming international cup matches.

In the second match between two British players, the veteran Hilton defeated M. K. Foster, five up and four to play.

Chick Evans, American national champion, won his first round against Stoner Crowther 5 up and four to play.

Francis Oulmet also won his first match against C. E. Dick, three up and two to play.

APPLETON LOSES TO MENASHA BEFORE IMMENSE CROWD

MENASHA BUNCHES HITS WHEN NEEDED AND WINS, 4 TO 3

Errors Partially Responsible for First Defeat of Appleton Crew.

Menasha, 4; Appleton, 3.
Kimberly, 7; Kaukauna, 5.
New London, 3; Oshkosh, 2.

Young Mr. Weisgerber, who cavorted in Brandt's center garden a week ago, shifted over to Menasha on Sunday and played a big part in Menasha's 4 to 3 victory over Appleton's pennant aspirants. Catcher Day's inability to hold Schultz's shoots gave Menasha the one run needed to win. This heart breaking event occurred in the sixth inning and happened like this:

After Weisgerber had rolled out Neuman plastered the ball against the centerfield fence for three bases. Webb struck out but Day missed the third ball and Neuman crossed the plate before it could be recovered and Webb rested on the first sack. Kammer then singled to right, sending Webb to third from where he tried to score on a single to right but was out off at the plate on a splendid peg by Murphy to Day.

About 2,000 fans saw the battle and got a kind of baseball thrills. The ball was hit hard and often but excellent support out of a lot of bases.

Both teams hit in the first inning but there was nothing doing in the way of runs until the second when Menasha sent a button across on two hits. Weisgerber started the fire works with a single and then stole second, finishing the journey when Webb whaled the ball to left for two bases. The next two were easy outs.

That run was a signal to Brandt's men to get busy and before the smoke cleared away the Appleton crew had sent two men over the plate. Schulz rolled out as a starter and then Beyer singled, stole second and kept on going to third when the peg to second went into centerfield. Duran busted a two base drive, scoring Beyer and Day followed with a single; sending Duran home. Day was too anxious to stretch his blow into a double and was run down between the bases, ending the fireworks.

Menasha evaded up the count in the fourth on two singles and a stolen base, Zelinski registering the counter. Menasha added another to its string in the fifth on two singles and a stolen base. Bixby getting credit for the score. Another run was scored in the sixth and then there was nothing doing until the eighth when Brandt's men added another to their total. Spies started by beating out a bunt and went to third when Beyer singled to the left field fence. Weisgerber's wild pitch scored Spies but the next three men were easy outs.

Appleton tried hard to come back in the ninth but Weisgerber was working in good form and the home boys went hitless.

Trained Feet Make Baseball Supers

Trained feet are the most valuable assets a ball player has.

If they aren't trained all the baseball ability in the world from the feet up won't make a star out of him.

Kaukauna's second game of the season by Kimberly Sunday at Kaukauna ball park, 7 to 5. Kaukauna led in hitting, getting 12 clean drives off Marty Lamers while Kimberly clouted only 10 safe hits. Lamers and Schmidt each struck out seven opponents. Close to 700 fans were inside the gates when the game began.

Kimberly started to score in the first inning. Cavell flew to right field, then Loos was given a life on a wild throw to first. Then, one of Kimberly's heaviest hitters, belted the horseshoe for three bases, sending Loos over the plate. T. Lamers struck out, but Stegeman muffed the ball and the batter beat the ball to first. Then scoring on the play.

Marty Lamers retired the side in short order, catching a fly hit by Shovel and assisting in putting out Johnson, who hit to Marty's mitt. Minkebege was hit on a pitched ball but he was caught off first base after taking too big a lead.

In the second, third and fourth inning, Kimberly put up only nine batters, five of them whiffing and the other four going out on easy flies. Kaukauna started the second inning with a hit. Schmidt struck out and Wittig followed with a two bagger but they died on the paths when Nagan fanned and Stegeman flied to second base.

The Electric city scored in the fourth inning after Lamers had retired two men. Huber was given a base on balls and Schmidt landed on one for two bases. Wittig repeated the act, sending Huber and Schmidt over the plate, and Wittig himself scored when Nagan clouted another two bagger. Stegeman hit, advancing to third, but further scoring was prevented when Felthausen fouled out.

In the sixth and seventh innings Kimberly got six safe cracks at the pill and scored five times. Kaukauna also made a number of hits but was unable to score.

Lammers was hit by a pitched ball in the seventh inning. The horseshoe grazed his stomach but close enough to knock him out of wigg. It took several minutes before he was able to sit up, and he was unable to return to the game. Boyle taking his place in the field.

Kaukauna's chance to win the game came in the seventh, when Shovel planted a two base hit and Minkebege followed with another of the same kind. The batsman failed to touch first base and he was called out when the ball was thrown to first. Shovel's score was not counted since he scored on the play in which the last man was put out.

It was after the seventh inning that the Kaukauna players became so disgusted with the umpire that they did not put forth their best efforts, but in spite of that, Kimberly failed to score again. In the last half of the ninth Stegeman started a rally by hitting for two bases, but adrianhaus and Shovel, who hit, advancing and Shovel, sending Stegeman over the plate. Fans who were leaving the grounds, began to return, expecting a sensational comeback. Minkebege clouted a long single, enabling Johnson to score. Huber ended the game when he hit to short and was thrown out at first.

The score.

BEST LAID PLANS FALL APART WHEN MEN MEET IN RING

Dempsey Expected to Fight Same Kind of Battle Which Defeated Willard.

BY JOHNNY KILBANE.
Featherweight Champion.
What will Jack Dempsey's plan of battle in his fight with George's Carpenter be?

That is a question that has been asked and will be asked many times. It is a hard one to answer, as plans laid before a fight, especially one of this importance, are generally knocked to pieces before the men have gone very far.

Plans of battle are usually laid, or rather, made, by one opponent for the other. That is, each must adapt himself to the other's offense and defense when the battle is actually on.

It is idle to say before the men step into the ring that Dempsey will do this and that, or that Carpenter will do so and otherwise. Of course, each has his particular style, or specialty, but circumstances very often alter styles.

How Others Fought
Joe Gans was a consistent counterer. Terry McGovern rushed in head down and tried to batter his men down with sheer strength and speed of attack. Jim Corbett hooked and jabbed with his left and did much footwork. Jeffries crooked and boxed cautiously and when the opportunity presented itself did most of his work with a natural left to head or body. Willie Ritchie favored a right to the body and a straight line (not a right cross) to the chin, and so on down the line.

Basing my belief on what I have seen Dempsey and Carpenter do in action, I believe that Dempsey will rely largely on getting inside, hammering the body with his right and then bringing the left over to the head. I do not see how he can afford to do otherwise. The champion fights from side to side, while Carpenter steps in and out, using a fast one-two.

Jack Must Fight
If Carpenter does not vary from his style, Dempsey would be foolish to stand off and attempt to box with the Frenchman. He could not catch him with such tactics, his opponent being too fast and smart at this sort of a game. A little pullback and Dempsey would miss, leaving him open for a fine counter.

In his fight with Willard the present champion's first punch was a right smash under the heart, following a fraction of a second later with a sort of a lifted left hook to the jaw, which sent big Jess over for the first knockdown. That is what I expect Dempsey to attempt to do the moment the bell sends them away.

Will Let Jack Lead
What Carpenter will try when he starts also is hard to predict. I believe that he will permit Dempsey to do all of the starting, that he will be cautious to the point of creating the belief that he is not much in love with the issue—a little bit afraid, to be perfectly plain and frank.

Speed of hand and foot he undoubtedly has, and as they are his principal assets, unless he has developed some thing of which we know nothing at this time, they must be his principal stock in trade, with the style of fighting as we have known it when he starts to go.

BURGLARS ENTER THREE STORES IN HUNT FOR MONEY

Clothing and a Box of Cigars Constitute Loot of Three Burglaries.

Burglars entered three College-ave stores Sunday night with the evident mission of stealing money, but are not known to have obtained a cent because of the caution exercised by merchants in not leaving cash in their registers. The places entered were the Bonini market, Wichman brothers' grocery and Thiede clothing store.

It is the belief of the police department that the burglary was committed Sunday evening because an employee of the Bonini market entering the store Sunday afternoon found everything in order. Monday morning the office had been ransacked. Nothing is missing. Entrance was gained through a rear window.

Gaining entrance to the Wichman store through the basement, the intruders pried open a door leading to the store with a crowbar. The cash register had been tampered with but there was no money to steal. A box of cigars was the only thing missing.

Two suit coats were missing from the Thiede store, and it is possible that other articles may have been taken. The place was left in considerable disorder by the thieves. The cash register had been broken open but it did not contain money.

Burglary of several stores was reported Friday evening from the Chicago and Northwestern signal service house at Appleton Junction, but the identity of the thieves has not been established. The police are working on the cases.

Washington.—The biggest airship in the world—Uncle Sam's "ZR-2"—under construction at Pulham, Eng., will be ready for practice flights early in June.

After a series of tests, her nose will be pointed westward across the Atlantic and she will come home under her own power early in July.

Commander L. H. Macfarland, who will command the ZR-2 on her homeward voyage, has been in England with a picked crew of 30 men for several months, watching construction. The ZR-2 is 674 feet in length, with a maximum diameter of 96 feet and a gas capacity of 2,270,000 cubic feet.

The British R-34, which flew to America and back to England in 1919, is 31 feet shorter and 254,000 cubic feet smaller in gas capacity.

Five 400-horsepower Sunbeam motors are mounted on to give the ZR-2 a maximum speed of about 100 miles an hour.

Her total lifting capacity will be between 70 and 80 tons.

Work is being rushed at Lakehurst, N. J., which will be the ZR-2's first "port-of-call," on bargons for her and a steamer-ship, the ZR-1, which is to be constructed there.

There will be no other places in the United States where an airship of this size can be housed, but plans call for the location of mooring masts at points where the ship may wish to tie-up while cruising.

With bargons at the Atlantic and Pacific terminals, for instance, and mooring masts located at intermediate points of call, a transcontinental straddle line would have all the landing facilities necessary.

These mooring masts are latticed steel structures from 16 to 150 feet high, provided with an elevator for conveying passengers, freight and pipes for furnishing water, ballast, gasoline, lubricating oil and lifting gas to the ship.

Whereas it requires from 300 to 400 men to "land" a ship of the size of the ZR-2 and "walk" her into a hangar, six men only all that are required to unmoor her to a mooring mast.

Mrs. Anna Lucy of Milwaukee, who was called to Neenah by the illness of her brother, the Rev. August Kleinhaus, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Cameron, for a few days.

GOLDMAN AND BERKMAN IN RUSSIA

This is the first picture to arrive in the United States showing the activities of Emma Goldman (1) and Alexander Berkman (2) in Russia. They have been adding in propaganda work for the soviet government, and are shown here at a communist meeting. Emma Goldman and Berkman were among the anarchists and other radicals deported from the United States to Russia on the "Red Ark" after deportation trials.

THAYER "CLEANED UP" BY 7 WOMEN

Feminine City Administration Orders Old Fashioned "Housecleaning."

Special to Post-Crescent
Thayer, Kas.—The whole world is peeping, as it were, through the curtains of Thayer's city hall.

The curtains were bought with the second city government in the United States composed entirely of women.

The first women's government rules in Jackson, Wyo., and is now seeking re-election. The first appropriation in Thayer was for hauling trash away. Thus city government in Thayer means municipal housecleaning.

Sanitary leaders and politicians throughout the nation are looking to see just how the job is done.

"We're going to do the little things first and do them well," says Mrs. Abby H. Forest, the mayor.

"We shall do our level best and, if we are not beheaded by irate citizens, there may be results."

That remark about being beheaded is just a bit of Her Honor's humor. Only a few reactionaries voted against the women's ticket. It was elected 4 to 1.

After buying the curtains and having the trash hauled away the women burned the bedding in the jail, ordered grass cut and trees cleaned, told citizens to keep their chickens out of neighbors' gardens, sold city band instruments and started to collect taxes from sources that had been overlooked by previous administrations.

The officials of the town are Mrs. Mattie M. Brewster, police judge; Mrs. Ivy Cross, president of council; Mrs. Eunice Rash, Miss Allie Lambertson, Mrs. Ina Craig and Mrs. Daisy M. Savage, councilwomen.

Miss Lambertson is a telephone operator. The others are housewives.

The earth will be hauled to the Washington-st. fill, west end, and the fill on the south end of Superior-st.

WANTS QUICK ACTION TO HALT SALE OF BEER

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—The house judiciary committee Monday started work in earnest to prevent the Palmer beer ruling from being put into effect.

Chairman Volstead summoned a subcommittee to discuss the text of his bill absolutely prohibiting the use of beer as medicine and otherwise strengthening the prohibition laws.

Because of the report that the treasury department has regulations for beer prescriptions which may be put into effect under the Palmer ruling that beer may be used in unlimited quantities as medicine, as soon as a new commissioner of internal revenue takes office, Volstead will rush the enactment of his beer bill.

SIMS GETS ROYAL WELCOME FROM BRITISH

MOTHER TOLD HER SON WAS KILLED IN ARGONNE FIGHT

Mrs. Christine Gosz Expects Son's Body Will Be Returned From France.

The body of Joseph Gosz, who was reported as "missing in action" by the war department, in 1918, has been located in France. His mother, Mrs. Christine Gosz, 983 Lake-st., has received word that identification of the body is absolute and the boy was killed in action in Argonne.

Arrangements have been made for the return of the remains and shipment will be made from abroad as soon as possible. The funeral will be held at Whitelaw and interment will be in the family lot at that place. The body will lie in state for one day at Reedsville where the legion post has been named after the dead soldier. Burial will be made with full military honors.

Joseph Gosz was one of the first of the Manitowoc-co. soldiers to go abroad and get into action. He fought with his division in the battles previous to the Argonne. The body was not found at the time and after a reasonable period had elapsed the war department reported him missing in action. This was in November, 1918.

FREEDOM HIGH SCHOOL HAS FIRST COMMENCEMENT

The first annual commencement of Freedom high school was held Sunday evening and the hall was filled in spite of the unfavorable weather. The program included dedications, dialogue, farce comedy, salutation, class history and class prophesy, valedictory and several musical selections. T. O. Dougherty presented the diploma and the Rev. T. J. Peters pronounced the benediction. The school board consists of John E. Garvey, Martin Weyenberg and John Williamson.

At first it was thought that Gosz had been made prisoner and his mother clung to the hope that he would later return from some German camp as had so many others who were reported missing.

With the lapse of months following the signing of the armistice, this hope was dispelled and he was given up as dead. For months the efforts of the war department and the Red Cross were directed to locating Gosz or trying to get a record of his death or his whereabouts without avail. In the letter received by Mrs. Gosz the tag number and number of his division and other marks correspond, leaving no doubt as to the positive identification.

BOY SCOUTS

Friday night Alicia Park was occupied by scouts from Troops 3, 5 and 10. The boys had the experience of making a pup tent camp for the first time. F. F. Martin of the vocational school gave the campers a star talk. Saturday morning was spent in scout tests and games.

Camping Applications

This is great hiking weather and the scouts of Appleton are getting camp fever. Applications for summer camp at Onaway Island continue to come into headquarters. It looks as though the first period would be full very quickly. Don't delay that application. The scout who waits may not get in.

Field Day Plans

A meeting of all the scoutmasters and assistants will be held Monday night in Hotel Appleton for the purpose of arranging final details for the field day at Jones Park on Saturday, May 23.

March in Parade

At the invitation of the G. A. R. and the American legion post, the Boy Scouts will occupy the same place in the parade as they did last year. The scouts have grown considerably in numbers and without a doubt will be the largest division in the line. Full details as to time of assembly and line of march will be given out at the scoutmaster dinner.

Monday night and will also be published later.

Benefit Movie
Friday night, May 27, the Boy Scouts of Troop 8 will give a benefit movie at the Congregational church. Three pictures are to be shown. "Treasure Island," a picture of adventure and discovery, a two reel comedy, "Max Comes Across," and an educational film. The proceeds are to be used for scout equipment and troop supplies. Scouts are now canvassing the city selling tickets. Those people who are not reached by scouts may buy their tickets at the door.

Lawrence Lyons has been elected scribe to succeed Will Meyer. Carl Engler was elected treasurer and assistant scribe.

Mrs. M. G. Behrend, who has been visiting in Appleton for the last few months, has returned to her home at Lake Geneva.

Carpenters Grievances

The carpenters are still holding fast. They are only asking for wages enough to keep their families and feed and cloth their children, fit to send them to school, also to pay the large taxes assessed against them in the city. While outside men are still taking the money out of town.
